

Therapy Outcome Measure: 2025 Updates

Last updated: 27 June 2025

The Therapy Outcome Measure (TOM) includes a number of 'adapted' scales, which are based on the 'core' TOM but have been developed for specific client groups. These contain descriptors that have been developed by experts working in those areas, and aim to improve inter-rater reliability. The table below sets out the TOM scales that have been developed to date and changes for the 2025 Therapy Outcome Measure Handbook.

Most of the new and updated scales are also now available on the RCSLT Online Outcome Tool (ROOT). However, where scales have a 'non-standard' structure (i.e. extra domains) there are some functions that are still in development and these are also indicated below.

If you are using any of the 'non-standard' scales or have any other questions, please get in touch with us at root@rcslt.org to help us prioritise this work and test functionality.

The Therapy Outcome Measures Handbook also includes 'accompanying scales' that have been developed by practitioners to be used alongside the TOM scales, to provide additional information. These are not currently available on ROOT, because they have not been through the same reliability checks as TOM adapted scales.

For more information about scales in development or if you are working on developing/adapting a TOM scale for a particular client group or service, please contact Professor Enderby directly: p.m.enderby@sheffield.ac.uk

NB: If you would like to reproduce the text of an adapted scale in any way, including embedding descriptors in your electronic patient record system, a licence is required from J&R Press.

If your local system uses SNOMED CT codes, these have been requested for the new scales. Please be aware that some codes may still use the previous titles or domain names. For support, please get in touch professional_development@rcslt.org
